Seminar
Practice in the Court of Protection

at 5.00pm - 6.30pm

on Thursday 12 May 2011

to be held at Crown Office Row Chambers 119 Church Street, Brighton BN1 1UD

followed by a Drinks Reception

The Mental Capacity Act 2005 significantly changed the law on capacity and the court's powers where an adult lacks capacity. The 2007 Act introduced new provisions on deprivation of liberty.

This seminar is designed to give the busy practitioner an outline of the options available in both situations and will be of interest to family practitioners and private client advisors.

(1) Charlotte John will focus on the Court of Protection's statutory will jurisdiction and will outline the applicable principles and procedural requirements.

(2) Richard Ager will discuss the principles of capacity and the decisions the court is able to make flowing from that. He will raise issues of both practice and procedure.

After the talks there will be a session for attendees to share their experiences and discuss problems that may have arisen in their own cases.

Speakers

Charlotte's practice covers the full spectrum of private client work and property litigation. She has lectured in Equity and Trusts for a number of years and is a member of the Chancery Bar Association, Property Bar Association, and the Society of Legal Scholars.

Richard Ager was admitted as a solicitor in 1981 and then called to the Bar in 2004. Richard acts for local authorities, parents and guardians in all aspects of family law and is developing a substantial CoP practice.

The Seminar has been registered for 1.5 CPD points and will cost £15 per person. Please make cheques payable to "One Crown Office Row".
