

Consumer Rights Act 2015 and Interpreting Documents - a Practitioner's Guide

SEMINAR/WEBINAR

Wednesday, 11th May 2016

Evening Seminar/Webinar – 17:00 – 18:30

Drinks and canapé reception to follow

CROWN OFFICE ROW CHAMBERS, 119 CHURCH STREET, BRIGHTON BN1 1UD

The Supreme Court has set out a unified approach to the interpretation of all kinds of documents. Paul Ashwell will explain what it is. Stuart Wright will give a practitioners' guide to the Consumer Rights Act 2015

Paul Ashwell has a broad commercial and property practice. He will explain how in two cases in different areas – landlord and tenant and wills – the Supreme Court has adopted the same approach to interpreting documents. The result: a welcome simplification of the law.

Legal 500 ranks him in tier 1 for commercial, banking and insolvency “Helpful, efficient and delivers great successes” and Chambers Directory in tier 1 for commercial dispute resolution.

Stuart Wright is a specialist civil barrister and an accredited civil & commercial mediator.

Stuart has a dedicated civil practice developed over the past 15 years and has received consistently strong independent directory ratings for each of the past 8 years. He is regularly instructed in a range of common law matters with particular expertise in Business/Commercial and Contractual Disputes, Property Law, Professional Negligence and Personal Injury work. He provides in-house lectures for Local Authorities, Housing Associations and firms of solicitors in his specialist areas. Whilst predominantly practising throughout the south east he travels nationally when required.

In parallel and often complementing to his work as a civil barrister, Stuart is an ADR group accredited civil & commercial mediator and accepts instructions in a wide range of disputes.

This Seminar/Webinar has been registered for 1.5 CPD
Please make cheques payable to "One Crown Office Row" - £15.00 pp

Please register your interest by the 27th of April 2016.
When doing so, please specify if you wish to attend the Seminar or the Webinar email: danielle.worthington-hedges@1cor.com

