Clinical Negligence

Iain acts for claimants in clinical negligence and serious personal injury claims of all types, as well as in related inquests. He is instructed in high-value and multi-party actions, and has considerable experience of Article 2 inquests and CICA claims.

Inquests

Iain acts frequently in inquests, usually for families in Article 2 inquests involving a jury. He acted for the MDU in the high-profile inquest touching the death of Boris Berezovsky, in which the distinction between the standard of proof required for the conclusion of suicide was considered in some detail.

Iain has taken numerous CICA appeals to the First-Tier Tribunal and has regularly obtained maximum available compensation for his clients (i.e. he has beaten the CICA 'cap' of £500,000) on appeal.

Sports Law

Iain has maintained a sports law practice throughout his time at the Bar. His sports law practice is principally claimant-based, and has tended to involve serious injuries sustained during competitive football matches. Iain won a recent claim that involved a very serious injury resulting from an excessive challenge sustained during a competitive football match, notwithstanding the fact that the claim was brought without the benefit of a supportive report from the match referee. He has also settled a sports claim involving a serious leg injury, notwithstanding the fact that the injury was sustained during a non-competitive polo match in unusual circumstances.

Animal Welfare Law

Iain has maintained a niche specialism in animal welfare law; he acts frequently for the RSPCA in criminal, public and civil matters, almost all of which involve an element of veterinary law and the close consideration of the often-convoluted body of animal welfare legislation. Iain's specialist criminal practice includes prosecuting offences under the Animal Welfare Act 2006 for the RSPCA in animal cruelty cases. Iain increasingly undertakes prosecutions involving multiple defendants and the organised criminal activity of animal fighting.

He represented the RSPCA at all stages of the largest ever prosecution brought by the Society, RSPCA v Gray and others, which case resulted in multiple judicial reviews that set out the ambit and applicability of numerous sections of the Animal Welfare Act 2006.

Iain has advised the RSPCA on various areas of policy in the past, including advising on its status as a charity and the extent of its powers as a private prosecutor.
